It's wise to keep a pile of cut newspaper 10 inch squares in your kitchen. A kettle or saucepan resting on these will save your table or potholder. The used square can easily be destroyed.

When setting a table in patio, on terrace or on porch (and you have no tea cart for transporting the equipment), two large trays will save you many a trip to and from the kitchen. China, napkins, crystal and silver settings can be carried on one tray while cream, sugar, bread, butter, salad and casseroles can be carried on the other.

If field mice in your woodland cabin ruin your mattresses in spite of protection methods, try this, - A tight cabinet -- 70x72x23 inches with two 33 inch doors and four 6 inch legs (with castors) holds mattresses and bedding and in summer becomes a wardrobe. A horizontal pole (on rope loops, over which folded blankets hang) in summer accommodates clothes hangers. Two ropes stretched across inside width of cabinet prevent contents from leaning forward against the doors.
